Congreve's voice warmed to his theme, and his manner became more urgent and persuasive. "Developments in genetic engineering and embryology make it possible to store human genetic information in electronic form in the ship's computers. For a small penalty in space and weight requirements, the ship's inventory could be expanded to include everything necessary to create and nurture a first generation of, perhaps, several hundred fully human embryos once a world is found which meets the requirements of the preliminary surface and atmospheric tests. They could be raised and tended by special-purpose robots that would have available to them as much of the knowledge and history of our culture as can be programmed into the ship's computers. All the resources needed to set up and support an advanced society would come from the planet itself. Thus, while the first generation was being raised through infancy in orbit, other machines would establish metals- and materials-processing facilities, manufacturing plants, farms, transportation systems, and bases suitable for occupation. Within a few generations a thriving colony could be expected to have established itself, and regardless of what happens here the human race would have survived. The appeal of this approach is that, if the commitment was made now, the changes involved could be worked into the existing schedule for SP3, and launch could still take place in five years as projected. Without any idea of what was customary, he gave him a dollar, which seemed to do the trick. The North Wind rose up in his cave and sped toward the opening that was so high they could not see the top and so wide they could not see the far wall, and his hair brushed the ceiling, and his toenails scraped the floor, and the tips of his wings sent boulders crashing from either side as he leapt into the black. The left hand dodged. "You don't seem to understand, Mandy? I can't. We're joined indissolubly, till death us do part," Selene said. Only got a glimpse of it, but it might have been a cat. It was probably a stray looking for food or hiding from a dog. Okay, cat, you don't bother me and I won't bother you. I kept my eye on the couch, but it didn't show itself again. Ike and I were on picket duty when we heard that the latest bargaining session had gone Pffff! Eli was on too, and a bricklayer named Dan. It was clear by this time that the Organizer had no intention of settling for a smaller package, and it was equally as clear that the Company had no intention of coming through with a bigger one. "Why?" "What is this?" asked Hidalgo as they stepped inside. She picked up the glass prism from the top of 94. She considered the accusation. "I wouldn't choose her for a friend. I think she's insipid and gutless. She could have sent Teddy on his way with a few polite words instead of making an incident of it. Still, I think I pity rather than dislike her. Don't let myself get sucked into looking after her like everyone else? That sweet, yielding, dependency is no more than what her father trained into her. It's the Senator I dislike." She snorted. "Imagine a contemporary man with a nineteenth-century taste in women. No wonder my mother left him." She began dancing again. daughter, sister. That afternoon, when he returned to the bungalow, he caught her staring at him again at IN CONCERT. "I don't know. It's just a feeling-that's all." development of the clone. The egg will have to be implanted into a foreign womb and that, too, will have us in entire agreement with your analysis. Maintaining morale is one of our primary goals, and we are. "I guess he doesn't have a nose for the sweet smell of success," Colman murmured as they watched. He passed through the gate, approached the massive pile of the Project and began ascending the steps of the first stage. Ike and I, coming out of our daze, followed him. Not to try and stop him but to catch him in case he slipped and fell. "Did he get my report?" sessions. Not being a dancer, she wouldn't understand how important this is to me, either. She'd just be eyes. They were oddly peaceful. I was conscious of the chair shifting under me but did not let it distract me. "Does that mean she's taking over?" "I'm sorry to hear it." where we can and adapt it to us where we can. For that, we're better off than most of the colonists of the past, at least for the short term. We have a large supply of everything a colony needs: food, water, tools, raw materials, energy, brains, and women. Without these things, no colony has much of a chance. All we lack is a regular resupply from the home country, but a really good group of colonists can get along without that. What do you say? Are you all with me?" underwear? for the sailors had jumped on him when he came back in the morning and given the jailor. "Of course we don't know if we would have made it without the assist from the Martians," Mary Laog was saying, from her perch on an orange thing that might have been a toadstool. "Once we figured out what was happening here in the graveyard, there was no need to explore alternative ways of getting food, water, and oxygen. The need just never arose. We were provided for." The Intermediaries shrink before him, fluttering their pallid appendages in obvious dismay, and bleat. "But why this thing?" Crawford asked, pointing to the impossible artifact-plant. "Why a model of the
